We are here to help you!

All parents need the support of good community systems to help themselves help their children. Across Michigan, parents of young children may, at times, lack easy access to information and resources that will help them be their child's first and most important teacher.

Parenting Leadership in the Great Start System is a continuum of services and supports ranging from parent education for parents in the critical role they play in the healthy development of their infants and other young children, to parents as leaders who advocate for their own children as well as the needs of other young children.

Great Start Collaborative Parent Coalition Member Information

The Great Start Parent Coalition is made up of parents of children under the age of 12 who are concerned about our youngest children, and the programs that support them and their families. The coalition assists in building public support and early childhood programs in Monroe County and the State of Michigan. The coalition participates in advocacy and educational programs on behalf of young children so that all children enter kindergarten safe, healthy and ready to succeed in school and life.

Coalition members participate in leadership training and legislative advocacy, and speak publicly about the importance of early childhood development and education at local clubs, organizations and other privately funded group meetings

We hope you will join us on this grass roots effort to educate both individuals and groups about the importance of the first five years of a child's life. If you are interested, call Amy Zarend, Great Start Director at 242-5799 ext. 1928, or visit www.greatstartmonroe.org.

EMOTIONAL HEALTH

A growing body of evidence shows that emotional development begins early in life and is a critical aspect of the development of a child's overall brain architecture, with enormous consequences over the course of a lifetime. A child's emotional well-being and social competence provide a strong foundation for emerging cognitive abilities, and together they are the bricks and mortar that comprise the foundation of human development.

From birth, children rapidly develop their abilities to experience and express different emotions as well as their capacity to cope with and manage a variety of feelings. The development of these capabilities occurs at the same time as a wide range of highly visible skills in mobility (motor control), thinking (cognition), and communication (language). Yet, social-emotional development often receives relatively less recognition as a core emerging capacity in the early childhood years. The foundations of social competence developed in the first five years are linked to emotional well-being and affect a child's later ability to functionally adapt in school and to form successful relationships throughout life.

THE IMPORTANCE OF ATTACHMENT

Good "attachment" is the deep, long-lasting bond between your child and you during the baby's first several years of life. The early attachment years greatly affect your child's mind, body, emotions, relationships and moral values throughout his/her life. Provide good attachment by following these six easy steps:

1. The most powerful way to establish human relationship is through loving touch, one of our basic needs. Infant massage and breastfeeding are two excellent examples of loving touch.
2. Hold and handle your baby safely.
3. Make eye contact. This helps your baby's brain grow, while teaching him to make eye contact and to have positive communication.
4. Smile at your baby. Smiling helps the baby feel safe and secure, while providing warmth, joy and love.
5. Have a positive attitude.
6. Meet all of your baby's needs, unconditionally!

FAMILY HEALTH

A number of factors before and after the birth of a child can create challenges to his/her development and school readiness. Before the birth of a child, the developing brain architecture of a fetus can be disrupted by poor maternal nutrition, exposure to a variety of hazardous substances, and the adverse physiological effects of a pregnant woman's chronic stress.

Access to prenatal health care can help identify such high-risk circumstances and provide a vehicle for addressing hazards to healthy brain development in a preventive fashion. After birth, providing access to a regular and affordable source of primary health care for mothers, infants and children is important in helping to prevent threats to the child's healthy development, as well as provide early detection and intervention for concerns that could lead to more serious problems later in a child's physical, developmental and mental health.

SAFE SLEEP FOR BABY

Babies sleep safest on their BACKS. Reduce the risk of Sudden Infant Death Syndrome by practicing the following safety tips:

- Always place your baby on his or her back to sleep, even for naps.
- Place your baby on a firm mattress, such as in a safety-approved crib.
- Check your crib's slats for safety, if a pop can slides through, they are too wide.
- Do not allow smoking around your baby.
- Remove soft, fluffy and loose bedding and stuffed toys from your baby's sleep area.
- Make sure your baby's face and head stay uncovered during sleep.
- Do not let your baby get too warm during sleep.
- Make sure everyone who cares for your baby knows to place your baby on his or her back to sleep.

For more information on crib safety guidelines, call the Consumer Product Safety Commission at 1-800-638-2772 or visit their Web site at www.cpsc.gov.

EARLY LEARNING — AGE 0-5 YEARS

High quality child care and early education experiences are critical to every young child's development. Research has clearly demonstrated that children's early learning experiences determine their foundation for future learning and success. Children who have high quality child care and preschool experiences, including support for health and emotional well-being, are more successful in later school years, are less likely to repeat a grade, are more likely to graduate high school, attend college, and become productive citizens.

FAMILY SERVICES

Economic hardship and other types of deprivation (child neglect or abuse) can have profound effects on children's development and their prospects for the future. Low family income can impact children's cognitive development and ability to learn. It can contribute to behavioral, social and emotional problems. The greatest risk is for young children who experience economic hardship, especially that of a severe and chronic nature.

Family Support initiatives help parents develop and use available resources that enable them to nurture and support the healthy development of their children. Family support services range from providing information about early learning, to helping families to access economic security benefits and connect with other families and community services.

A Great Start for every child in Michigan: Safe, healthy and eager to succeed in school and in life

The purpose of Great Start is to assure a coordinated system of community resources and supports to assist all Michigan families in providing a great start for their children from birth through age five.

The agency coordinating the Great Start Collaborative in Monroe County is the Monroe County Intermediate School District. Many different agencies, programs, and professionals make up this network in the County; however, under Great Start they work in a collaborative manner to provide the family the services they need.
